Hope for 'new look' sanitary district with new engineer

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Wendell Wheadon, executive director of the Metro-East Sanitary District since mid-1977, has resigned, conceding that Madison County now has the authority to control the district and dismiss him.

At a meeting Friday morning, Wheadon gave his verbal resignation to the board with a written resignation to follow. The resignation is not effective until the end of June, but Wheadon decided to use vacation and sick time he has accumulated now until the resignation is effective, so he cleaned out his desk and his office Friday after the meeting.

Board President Russell Robinson of Granite City told the Press-Record that Wheadon is leaving under a cordial relationship and has agreed to report to work, when needed, to help the board close the financial books, take over federal grant programs and other matters related to the transition of control.

"We would advertise for applications for a new executive director immediately, but the job requires a professional engineer and I do not think we could get one to come to work for us right now, since we are out of money and could not pay his salary for a couple of months," Robinson said, adding, "In the interim, the board will have to run the district."

Robinson said the district hopes to begin receiving tax funds about July but about half of the taxes expected will have to be used "off the top" to repay tax anticipation warrants, bonds and interest. The district now has about $725,000 in tax anticipation warrants outstanding and only expects to receive about $1.6 million in tax revenues.

"The district is almost entirely shut down," Board Member Walter "Shang" Greathouse, told the Press-Record. "Yesterday, we ordered all the pump stations, except for the Monsanto station in East St. Louis, shut down and the operators laid off, because the river is down. If we have a major storm, they will be called back to work."

"The only things now operating, besides the office, are the television grouting truck and a truck that flushes out the sewer lines and we need to keep at least that much operating to keep our grant on the Cahokia sewer reconstruction project," Greathouse added.

Employees on those pieces of equipment are what the district terms "6-week employees," who are hired with the assurance of 52 weeks of pay each year.

Robinson estimated only eight or nine persons are working "in the field" today and all other departments, including the pollution department, are working with the minimum number of employees needed to provide essential services.

He said that the Cahokia trunk line reconstruction project is a major expense of the district and when repairs are being made, the payroll is about $15,000 per week. "There was no way we could keep that job operating without additional borrowing and that is one thing we just will not do," Robinson stated.

Greathouse said he and Robinson talked to State Rep. Sam Wolf (D-Granite City) Thursday and was assured that a bill to split the sanitary district, basically along county lines, is proceeding well in the legislature. If Republicans will join the Democrats from both Madison and St. Clair counties in supporting the split, the bill could become law within two to three months, Wolf told Robinson, it was related.

State Rep. Everett Steele (R-Glen Carbon) is among those supporting the split and he and other local Republicans are urging State Rep. Celeste Stachi (R-Belleville) to throw her support toward the split.

Under the present House bill, Madison County would retain control of the Cahokia Canal from Horseshoe Lake to the pumping station in East St. Louis and would control that pumping station, since both handle water from Madison County drainage.

Deer facing life in the city or death in the wild

By PAT FOLEY
of the Press-Record

Bambi, an 11-month-old white tailed deer, has become a center of controversy between his owner Larry Miller, 2102 Bryan Ave., and the city humane department.

Andy Chiappa, humane officer for the city, believes that the deer is a farm animal and is prohibited from being kept within the city limits as stated in city ordinance 3169.

The ordinance, passed by the city council on January 8, 1978, amended Chapter 21 of the municipal code and states, "It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to keep any goats, pigs, sheep, cattle or other farm animals of any kind anywhere in the city."

Miller says that the deer is not a farm animal and he has a Class B Wild Game Breeder Permit issued by the Illinois Conservation Department. The permit allows Miller to own wild game in the state.

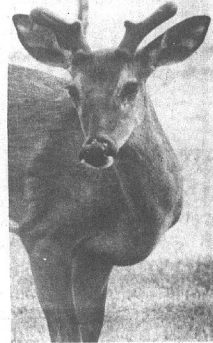

It is unlawful to own wildlife without such a permit in Illinois.

CENTER OF CONTROVERSY. Bambi, an 11-month-old white tailed deer owned by Larry Miller, 2102 Bryan Ave., plays with his owner Thursday afternoon. Miller has been told by the city humane officer that the deer is a farm animal and is prohibited from being kept within the city limits. Miller has owned the deer for more than 10 months and disagrees that the deer is a farm animal. He says it is wildlife for which he has a state permit.

Growing world demand brightens outlook for steelmaking

Citing major new marketing, operations and acquisition strategies, top officers of National Steel Corporation on Thursday mark a 50th anniversary year presentation in New York City before the New York Society of Security Analysts, Inc.

Addressing the analysts were George A. Stinson, National's chairman; Howard M. Love, president; and Richard S. Smith, senior vice-president.

In his remarks, Stinson briefly reviewed the company's growth record since its founding in 1929, noting that National Steel has turned in "continuous quarterly earnings and uninterrupted dividends for more than a half century."

Chairman Stinson said he believes that overall economic conditions for steel will support a more profitable cost-price structure to the steel industry in the future.

He pointed out that the world steel market is currently in about a 12 to 15 percent oversupply condition.

However, he said, "Even the most conservative projections predict a balance in the world supply and demand for steel by 1983 and probably growing shortage conditions thereafter."

"Our projections for the domestic steel market indicate that shipping capacity is expected to increase to as high as 115 to 118 million tons by the mid-80s and demand to about 130 million tons."

He assumes imports will run at about current levels. While he stopped short of predicting a world crisis in the availability of steel, Stinson said that "the point is, if these trends remain valid, the steel industry will — for the first time in a long while — be on the strong side of the supply and demand equation."

Addressing himself first to the corporation's new marketing strategy, Pres. Love emphasized that National Steel's aim is to "maintain a strong position in the automobile and can markets, while decreasing our overall dependence on both."

He noted that in 1968 automotive customers accounted for about 31 percent and cans for about 25 percent of his company's shipments, while a decade later automotive represented little more than 22 percent and cans 20 percent of shipments.

All other markets, he said, consumed about 39 percent of National's shipments ten years ago, while in 1978 this percentage increased to nearly 49 percent of shipments.

Love told the analysts that National Steel has made substantial inroads into the tubing industry, the metal building industry, the construction market, and the service center market.

He also noted that shipments to wholly-owned subsidiaries, which accounted for almost five percent of shipments in 1968, jumped to about double that amount in 1978.

He emphasized to the analysts that National Steel can no longer be characterized as serving purely a consumer market, but also as a company serving a major segment of the capital goods markets.

Love said that the company's plan for continuous cost-cutting, as opposed to operational — or contingency — cost-cutting, includes all those measures "that are good ideas at all levels of operations."

He related, "There are over 200 of these "small" items in this year's cost-reduction plan.

"National's high-intensity, company-wide, cost-cutting programs in 1978 saved about $40 million."

"Already, we have identified costs for elimination that will almost double our 1978 savings, and I'm sure we can beat that."

"We are also taking some major steps to smooth out the cyclicality and other steel problems through diversification," Love told the analysts.

He then introduced Senior Vice-President Smith, who discussed National's recent action to acquire United Financial Corporation of California.

Smith said that "the rationale of our acquisition was essentially to provide a source of earnings that would provide a counter-balance for the problems which are intrinsic to the steel industry."

"I would like to stress," Smith told the analysts, "that this acquisition in itself way reduces our dedication to technological progress and efficiencies in the steel business."

He noted that National has just launched a $60 million modernization plan for its Granite City Steel Division which will include installation of an efficient continuous slab caster and major furnace revision.

He added that "in 1979, we will spend about $230 million, which is more than the estimated net cash flow from our

Bridge plan would delay dam—AIMR

Using the proposed new Mississippi River dam south of Alton for a bridge is a bad idea, the Association for the Improvement of the Mississippi River (AIMR) asserted today.

In a letter to John Kramer, secretary of the Illinois Department of Transportation, AIMR President Guy Jester said that use of the dam for vehicular traffic had been "thoroughly considered" and rejected by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Missouri Highway Department.

Kramer has proposed replacing the Clark Bridge, which carries U.S. Highway 67 across the Mississippi at Alton, with a roadway across the new dam, which with its adjacent lock will replace Locks and Dam 26.

Jester raised several objections to such a proposal.

A dam carrying a roadway would have to be equipped with a lift span to provide vertical clearance, he said, and redesigning the structure would take about a year.

An environmental impact statement would have to be prepared, and that also would take about a year, he added.

Furthermore, the Missouri Highway Department is "firm in its position" that any replacement of the Clark Bridge must not entail radical realignment of U.S. 67.

"The new dam will cross the Mississippi River about two miles downstream from the present crossing," he said. "We hope you will appreciate what we believe are the compelling reasons for abandoning any consideration of utilizing the proposed Lock and Dam No. 26 project" in replacing the Clark Bridge, Jester said.

The Association for the Improvement of the Mississippi River is an arm of the Regional Commerce and Growth Association organized specifically to work for replacement of Locks and Dam 26.

Building surge

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Building permits in Granite City soared over the $1.8 million mark during May with nine commercial projects, five new homes and 111 other projects being granted permits, a monthly report by the city's inspection department shows.

Two permits for Granite City Steel totaling $1,316,000 for razing and reconstructing a continuous slab-casting building and for an overhead steam line over 20th Street and Edwardsville Road were primarily responsible for the jump, but other permits totaling $556,271 were far above the average.

During all of last year, permits averaged $480,000 per month. Permits in April totaled $416,205, or $1,456,066 below the $1,872,271 in permits issued last month.

The Granite City Steel permits were for the first phase of a $60 million modernization program now under way. One permit was for $864,000 to raze and reconstruct a building for continuous slab-casting and the other was for a $342,000 overhead steam line to be constructed over 20th Street and Edwardsville Road from the blast furnaces to the North plant.

Other commercial and industrial projects granted permits during May included a $110,000 professional office building at 3120 Maryville Road, a $25,000 driveway for the Ferraro Corp. plant on Nameki Drive, $19,000 in concrete improvements around Paddlers Swim Club pool, an $18,500 program to remodel Bethel Temple Church, a $4,800 building for Granite Sheet Metal, and a $1,500 temporary construction office for Stanley Lucas on Westmoreland Drive at Keith Street.

Five new houses are to be constructed in various locations at a total cost of $181,000. Permits for new residences were granted to Norman

Bright, shiny baubles, bangles can put a sparkle in my eyes

I have spent most of my adult life being in love with one of nature's most beautiful rocks, the diamond.

I have always been fascinated by diamonds, but it was not until I received my first sparkling bauble that I really began to crave diamonds.

The old saying, "Diamonds are a girl's best friend," doesn't hold true for me since I have had to put up quite a fight for every one that I have.

My husband bought me a ring when we were first married. It had two tiny specks, one on each side of the center stone, which the jeweler said were diamonds.

I was tickled to know that I had my first diamonds, even though I couldn't see them. It was at that point that my darling husband decided I had enough of the bright, shiny stones. It was also about that time that I decided that I wanted a few that I could see.

My husband and I went along for almost 10 years with this gap in our relationship. Then, when our tenth Christmas together was about to roll around, I began my push. That was to be the year of the diamond, as far as I was concerned. I would stop in front of every jewelry store we passed, looking longingly into the window at all of the beautiful wedding rings. I did a lot of hinting.

I thought catalogs from all sorts of places and set them where he would find them. I would circle diamond jewelry, hoping that he would get my drift.

For Christmas that year I got the wedding rings, complete with seven diamonds. I think it was more a matter of my wearing him down than anything else. He still thinks diamonds are a silly thing to buy. Later on he bought me a tiny diamond on a chain and still later a pair of diamond earrings.

In both cases I had to go through the same procedure in order for him to take money out of his pocket for rocks.

Now I think I have all of the diamonds I want. Well, almost. But I am really getting interested in sapphires.

He thinks they are even dumber than diamonds. Oh, well, out come the catalogs.

Rainfall during year slightly above normal

Rainfall in the Quad-City area during May totaled only 1.14 inches, or 2.59 inches below the normal of 3.73 inches, according to readings at the Chain of Rocks locks which maintains weather records for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Precipitation was recorded on only seven days of the month, with a trace recorded on one day. A trace is moisture to slight to be recorded.

Heaviest rainfall of any single day occurred on June 3 when 5.8 of an inch of precipitation was registered. On May 27, precipitation was recorded at .18 of an inch. All other readings were of a lesser amount, including .15 of an inch on May 11, .10 of an inch on May 14, and .09 of an inch on May 12.

Other readings included .09 of an inch on May 4 and .01 of an inch on May 20. The trace was recorded on May 1.

Despite the low precipitation during May, it brought to 14.67 inches the total rainfall during the first five months of the year, or .37 of an inch above the normal fall of 13.80 inches for that period.

The above-normal rainfall resulted from precipitation above normal during January, March and April. April rainfall, records show, was nearly double the normal for that month. A total of 6.11 inches of rain fell during April, compared to a normal of 3.71 inches for that month.

January precipitation totaled 2.33 inches which was .27 of an inch above the normal of 1.98 inches for that month. In March the total fall was 3.41 inches, or 1.07 inches above the normal of 2.34 inches.

February, the only other month of the year so far to record less than normal rainfall, had a total fall of 1.66 inches, compared to a normal of 2.04 inches.

Health officer reports top immunization record

Granite City's record of child immunization is one of the highest in Illinois. Area Council of Parent-Teacher Associations were advised by a state health officer last week.

The information was relayed by Sherwood Zimmerman, program coordinator for the Illinois Immunization Program, who addressed council representatives at the final meeting of the 1978-79 school year.

The event also was highlighted with the installation of new council officers by Mrs. Barbara Haddock of Granite City, new PTA District 29 director.

She used the theme, "Challenge," and charged the new officers to "bring new thoughts, ideas and programs into the council's activities."

Leading the PTA council in 1979-80 will be: Mrs. Julie Gates, Maryville PTA, president; Mrs. Virginia Apperson, Johnson PTA, vice president; Mrs. Linda Fussell, Nameoki PTA, recording secretary; Mrs. Phyllis Ryan, Parkview PTA, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Phyllis Gorrell, Mitchell PTA, treasurer.

Zimmerman informed the parents and school administrators present that the Granite City School District can be proud of its immunization record.

Immunization coverage of children is 95 percent in this community, one of the highest in the state, he said. He urged continued support of the immunization program to ensure protection for all children.

Because community-school cooperation has produced a top rate of immunization coverage here, Zimmerman asked that any family knowing or suspecting a case of rubella (measles), signified by a red rash, accompanied by a high fever of 100 degrees or more, to contact:

Ricard Galt or Toni Hock at the Illinois Department of Health Region 4 office, Edwardsville, 1-288-5786, or write to the office at Cottonwood Road, Edwardsville, Ill. 62625.

Zimmerman said by reporting all cases during the summer months it may be possible to "stamp out rubella in the community this fall."

Strawberry festival Saturday

Luscious, ripe red strawberries, this year hand-picked at a farm near Granite City, are the key attraction at the annual Strawberry Festival and Bazaar, sponsored each early June by the Christian Women's Fellowship at Central Christian Church.

Patrons always find other items of interest at the festival and this June will be no different, according to Doris Edwards, general chairman of the event.

The festival will take place from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday on the church grounds, located at 2020 Johnson Road.

Admission is free and the public is being invited to attend.

A $1.50 donation will be asked for strawberry shortcake and ice cream. Two tacos and a beverage, or a sandwich, potato salad and a beverage will be available for the same donation.

Julie Gates and Joyce Rutledge, co-chairmen, report the women of the church have been hard at work on many special projects since last fall.

Under the directional planning of Beverly Bull, special craft classes have been held at the church each Wednesday evening, with the results to be offered at Saturday's bazaar.

Hand crocheted items, large and small rag dolls, exotic plants, home baked goods and special craftwork will be among the items offered in several booths.

At the Hall of Frames booth, patrons will have an opportunity to receive an original painting, donated by Eva Meadows, or a framed, handstitched sampler made by Margie Graves. Mrs. Meadows is booth chairman.

Of special interest will be the display of a miniature doll house, created by Mrs. Lois Wolfe. A 25 cent admission fee will be charged to inspect the tiny dwelling, Mrs. Edwards said.

The house is furnished in French provincial and traditional American style, with a cozy breakfast room, plus an entry porch with its own miniature swing and hanging baskets of spider plants.

An arrangement of tiny beaded flowers on a hairpin lace tablecloth decorates the dining room. Needlepoint rugs and wallcoverings complete the decor.

HANDCRAFTED ITEMS, such as the decorative pencil head covers and rag dolls displayed by Mrs. Lean Seitzer, left, and Mrs. Norma McCormick, will be available at the Strawberry Festival and Bazaar on the grounds of Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road, from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday. The public is being invited to attend.

Mrs. Wolfe handmade every item in the three-story house to delight her grand-daughter, Missy Grigby, who is only 18 months old.

Proceeds from the festival-bazaar are used by the Christian Women's Fellowship to support its mission donations, special community projects and other scholarship grants.

In addition to those mentioned, chairmen in charge of the various booths are:

Lumeta Durbin, Norma McCormick and Joe and Madge Hanson, Kountry Kitchen; Lena Seitzer, Strawberry Patch dining area; Mary Alexander, Peggy Gibbons and Ora Fletcher, Garden Gallery; Ruby Hart and Marge Kacera, Stitchery; Lynda Leggett, Krazy Krafts.

Dorothea Rivenburgh, Ye Ole Bake Shop; Jo Stephens, Treasures and Trivia; Joyce Bennington, Christmas in June; Christian Youth Fellowship members, Bargain Buys and Portraits of You; and Ruth Shipley, greeter and hostess chairman.

GC cold war expert selected for seminar

Dr. G. W. Sands of Granite City, who teaches courses on the Cold War era for Belleville Area College, has been chosen as a participant in the Cato Institute seminar, "America and the World," to be held at the University of Oregon June 18-24.

The seminar will include lectures, readings and discussions to help scholars evaluate major economic and political developments of recent years.

Seventy-five economists, historians and political scientists from across the nation will share dormitory and dining facilities with scholars of note.

This will enable them to engage in extensive informal discussion with such renowned authorities as Arthur Ekirch Jr., professor of history at State University of New York; Murray N. Rothbard, professor of economics and history, Polytechnic Institute of New York; Ronald M. Hartwell, professor of history, Oxford University; George Hilton, professor of economics, University of California at Los Angeles, and others of equal reputation.

Edward H. Crane III, president of the Cato Institute board of directors, says, "The increasing erosion of civil liberties in the modern world has occurred in concert with a widening array of social problems.

"These disturbing developments have resulted from a failure to examine social problems in terms of the principles of human dignity, economic welfare and justice.

"The Cato Institute aims to broaden public policy debate by sponsoring programs to assist both the scholar and the concerned layperson in analyzing questions of political economy.

"The programs of the Cato Institute include sponsorship and publication of basic research in social philosophy and public policy; publication of major journals on the scholarship of liberty and commentary on political affairs.

"Also, production of debate forums and documentary studies for radio and television; and organization of an extensive program of lectures, seminars and conferences."

Dr. Sands' writings include "The National Security Report of 1946: A Reinterpretation of the American Relations with the Soviet Union," in Journal of Contemporary History; "Truman, the Navy and the Atomic Bomb: A Reappraisal," and Strategic Deterrence and American Security: The Crisis in U.S. Defense Policy Since 1945, a book he is now working on.

Sands resides with his wife and two children at 32A Jeannette Drive, Granite City.

Rabies clinic Tuesday in GC

A local veterinarian will provide rabies shots to pets of Granite City residents from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Granite City Humane Shelter, located on Highway 5, just south of A. O. Smith Corp. plant.

The inoculations cost $5 per pet.

Humane Officer Andy Chappas reminds residents that rabies shots are required by state and city law.

Failure to inoculate pets will result in a substantial impoundment fee should the animal be involved in a biting incident, he cautioned.

Also required is the purchase of a city dog license, costing $1 for males and $2 for females.

Extend energy aid

The Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission has been notified by the Community Services Administration that the certification period for the Crisis Intervention Program (Emergency Energy Assistance Program) has been extended to June 30.

After an initial $200,000 had been spent in February and March, another $200,000 was received on May 4. The original program deadline was May 31.

EOC is now authorized to accept and process applications until June 30 for energy related crises arising prior to June 1, 1979.

Utility bills can be paid only if there is a disconnect notice.

Of the most recent $200,000 grant, approximately $50,000 has been obligated to date with $150,000 remaining.

Deer

Miller obtained the deer from a licensed wildlife breeder when it was about a month and a half old and in very poor health. It was one of two bucks born to a doe which was unable to nurse her young. The other young buck died.

The deer has been kept at Miller's residence for almost 10 months without incident.

Chiappa contacted Miller on May 24 and told him that he had two weeks to remove the deer from the city.

Mayor Paul Schuler said last week that the city would give Miller a reasonable amount of time to move the deer out of the city. Schuler said it appears that the deer doesn't belong in the city and Miller will have to get rid of it.

The deer has become a popular friend to the children in the neighborhood. A group of 10 children who attended the Pre-School Center at West 24th Street and Logan Avenue walked to the Miller residence about two weeks ago to view and play with the deer.

The Millers have a five-year-old son, James, who plays with Bambi.

The deer has become so domesticated that it cannot be turned loose in the wild, as it would probably be unable to survive for long.

Miller says he would like to keep Bambi at his home and feels that the city ordinance does not prohibit keeping a deer in the city.

The conservation department permit would not be required if the deer was a farm animal. Miller strongly believes the deer is wildlife and not a farm animal and therefore does not come under the ordinance.

Whether or not Miller is allowed to keep the deer in the city remains to be seen. Miller says he will comply with the ordinance, but feels that the city and the humane department are interpreting the ordinance to avoid complaints and to suit their own needs in this situation.

Growing

steel operations.

"This is a solid continuation of our established pattern over the past five years," Smith said. "We have spent a total of over $1 billion on steel modernization from a net cash flow of $800 million."

Smith explained to the security analysts that the cost of acquiring United Financial will not come from steel.

He said that "about half the cost will come from the cash flow from our aluminum business—which was a very successful diversification—and the remainder from debt and inventory adjustments."

"Therefore, I think I can safely assure you that our acquisition of the United Financial Corp. of California will help—not hinder—our steel business."

"We expect that it will substantially improve our future earnings and the overall financial position of National Steel," Smith concluded.

Combined GC tax rate down 10¢

Granite City's taxpayers will pay taxes to the township's seven major taxing districts on a combined tax rate of $6.845 per $100 assessed valuation, a reduction of 10.8 cents below last year's total rate of $6.953.

The new rates to be applied in extension of 1978 tax bills for this year's collection were announced Friday by County Clerk Evelyn Bowles who said rate extension work is nearing completion by the county treasurer's office while the county treasurer's office will proceed as rates are extended in the county's 24 townships.

Tax collections already are running behind those of previous years, due primarily to difficulties over assessments as they were computed for the tax year. Taxes are collected a year later than the operating period for which they are levied by the taxing agencies. In previous years, tax collections have been under way in Quad-City townships by mid-June.

Extension of new rates for the seven Granite City Township tax bodies was completed with announcement last week that the county clerk's office had extended a new rate of 55.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation for the county. The county rate is applied to all tax bills on a countywide basis to provide tax funds for operation of the county government.

While this means an increase of 1.1 cents in the county rate, up from $4.7 cents a year ago, finance officials noted that an increase of $6,397,500 in the county's total assessed valuation of $12,204,584,000, prevented an even higher rise in the rate.

Pay boosts and benefit increases for county employees in the current budget added more than $600,000 to county costs. County officials said that the 1978-79 budget of $8.6 million left no way to avoid a tax rate increase.

Tax rates for all of the county's special funds except mental health and the maps and plans departments, showed decreases. The mental health budget was increased from $500,000 to $800,000 because of programs to which the mental health department is committed.

Granite City's corporate (city) tax rate has been set at $1.477 per $100 assessed valuation, a cut of 3.4 cents below last year's rate of $1.511. Rates for all Granite City Township taxing bodies also were based on a substantially increased property assessment of $166,644,379, up by $1,589,115 over the 1977 assessment of $176,315,264 on which tax bills were based last summer.

A rate for the Metro-East Sanitary District posed a special problem to the county clerk's tax division this year, but has been set finally at 33.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation as an "adjusted" rate to compensate for an estimated rate extended last year; the new rate is 3.2 cents lower than the 40-cent rate last year.

Last year, because property assessments for that part of the sanitary district in St. Clair County could not be obtained in time to complete Madison County rate computations, tax officials estimated the rate. The adjusted rate compensates for any variation there may have been in last year's rate, Miss Bowles' office reported.

Granite City residents of School District 9 will pay taxes on a new rate of $3.78 cents, down 2 cents from last year's rate of $3.80. The same reduction will apply in other parts of the school district in adjoining townships.

Slight increases were made in the rates of Granite City Township and the Belleville Area College District, with both increases involving only a small fraction of a cent.

The new township rate is set at 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation, up only .01 of a cent from last year's 24.9-cent rate.

The rate for the Belleville Area College District has been extended at 19.6 cents, up .80 of a cent over last year's 18.8 cents.

A decrease of 1.2 cents occurred in the rate extension of 24.6 cents for the Granite City Park District. Last year the park district rate was 25.8 cents.

Temporary care of handicapped planned

A Special Planning Committee for the handicapped is conducting a survey of all parents of handicapped children and adults in St. Clair, Madison, Monroe, Bond, Clinton, Randolph and Washington counties. The committee is a part of the Region 4 Governor's Planning Council on Developmental Disabilities.

The survey will help the planning committee design temporary care services for families of developmentally disabled children and adults. This type of temporary care would be available for emergencies, vacations and other situations that require the parents or guardians to be absent from home for short periods of time.

The temporary care plan will train persons to take care of handicapped children or adults in their own homes while the parent or guardian is absent for short periods of time.

This survey is being distributed through special education school districts. Those who have not received the survey and are interested may contact Gary Osborne (259-0972).

GC tax rate drops

Granite City taxpayers will pay their tax bills this summer on a combined tax rate of $6.845 for the township's seven major taxing agencies. The total rate is a reduction of 10.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation below last year's combined rate of $6.953. New rates announced by County Clerk Evelyn Bowles are as follows:

Tax Agency	1977 Rate	1978 Rate
GC corporate (city)	$1.511	$1.477
GC School district 9	3.800	3.780
GC Township249	.250

Much of 'Prop. 13' savings in Illinois would aid Uncle Sam

If a California-style Proposition 13 were adopted in Illinois it would result in the end of 10 months, but sales tax collections are lagging a bit behind one year ago.

Comptroller Burris underscored the fact that the special Proposition 13 study is not intended to provide support for or against any pending tax or spending proposal in Illinois, but that "because of major differences in the tax structures of the two states, a proper fiscal perspective is essential as major decisions consider new directions in financing government."

Here are some of the key findings of Proposition 13 study:

—Local governmental services in California were hit hardest with hiring freezes, elimination of cost-of-living increases, and cancellation of summer classes and athletic programs.

—While Proposition 13 cut property taxes in California, property tax deductions from federal income taxes also went down with a result of $2.2 billion in added federal taxes paid by Californians and thus lost to the California economy.

Furthermore, because California's state income tax is tied to the federal income levy, the taxpayers there will now pay an additional $300 million in state income taxes.

—Many California utilities have passed on tax cut savings of $260 million to consumers in the form of rate reductions, but landlords are balky and rent controls may be coming soon.

—In Illinois, the tax rate would tumble in large counties but probably would not change significantly in smaller counties under Proposition 13 mandates.

—If Proposition 13 had been in effect in Illinois in 1978, tax extensions would have been reduced 47 percent or $1.8 billion.

—Because Illinois does not have a fund surplus like California's nor a progressive income tax like California's (Illinois has a flat rate), local school districts, special districts, and even bond sales would be hit hard — with no hope of financial assistance from the state.

Moreover, if property tax revenues fall, local districts would probably lose a substantial amount of federal aid.

—Overall conclusion: Business would get the biggest benefit from a Proposition 13 in Illinois; individuals would hand over approximately 24 cents of a every dollar gained by a tax cut to the U.S. government; the size and services of local governments would be significantly decreased; and much of the benefit would flow out of the state.

NAACP backs Williams

By MICK STRANGE

Leaders of the Madison County National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) met in Alton Sunday morning to show support for Clayton Williams.

Williams, a black, has been Associate Circuit Court judge for the Third Judicial Circuit, State of Illinois, since 1973. However, the circuit judges voted recently not to reappoint him.

Meeting in Alton yesterday were: Betty Powell, president Alton Branch NAACP; Winston Brown, president Edwardsville Branch; Rev. John Henry Williams, president of the Madison Branch; and Charles Lawson of East St. Louis, vice-president of the Illinois State Conference of NAACP Branches.

"We are all very concerned over both the racial and political overtones over Judge Williams' ousting," Rev. Williams said. Rev. Williams is not related to Clayton Williams.

"This man has an outstanding record as a judge and we of the NAACP fully support his reappointment. It's my understanding that the Madison County Bar Association voted to keep Judge Williams," Rev. Williams said.

Clayton Williams and Thomas Gibbons were not reappointed and two vacancies now exist.

Williams has re-applied for the position and is one of 11 candidates.

The filling of the vacancies could take a couple of months as the applicants list are certified as qualified by the court administrator in Springfield, who then prepares a ballot.

The ballots are mailed from Springfield to the individual Circuit Court judges, who then vote by secret ballot without conferring with each other, and mail their ballot back to the administrator in Springfield.

There could be more than one vote, taken as the successful candidate must have a majority vote of the Circuit Judges.

Strip search, jail testimony expected

The ninth of 11 statewide public meetings on jail standard revisions, conducted by Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal, will be held at 1 p.m. Friday in Belleville — the St. Clair County Courthouse, County Board meeting room 3064.

Over 900 criminal justice experts and other interested parties have been invited to present testimony at the meetings, which will conclude June 15 at Quincy.

O'Neal said, "All interested persons are invited to participate in the meetings. Testimony must be written. However, persons may read their views into the record and ask the committee questions."

Gov. James R. Thompson appointed the 14-member Jail and Detention Standards Review Committee, with O'Neal as chairman, in January to review current standards and to suggest a way to keep them consistent from one administration to the next.

A report will be written and presented to Gov. Thompson at the end of August.

O'Neal said, "One representative of each of our three subcommittees, municipal police, county jails and county juvenile detention, will attend the Belleville public meeting. I will also attend."

He said testimony is expected to center on:

1. What form a strip search standard should take.

2. Putting standards of the Illinois Department of Corrections (DOC) into statute form.

3. Eliminating the DOC from future authority for writing and enforcing municipal and county jail and detention standards.

4. Setting a deadline for municipal and county officials to comply with the new standards.

Besides the Belleville meeting, others will be held in Joliet and Quincy in June.

Extra copies of the entire text of current standards and the proposed changes are available in Lt. Gov. O'Neal's office, State Capitol, room 214, Springfield 62706, by including a self-addressed, stamped manila envelope with $1.58 postage attached. Copies are also available at any public library through the Illinois Documents Depository System.

O'Neal said, "Under present regulations, new jail and detention standards can be written every time a new director of the DOC assumes office. This adds a great financial burden to city and county budgets."

Committee members, with O'Neal as chairman, are: Richard Aubry, Meine, chairman of the Rock Island County Board; Gerald Bratcher, Palatine chief of police; Robert Davidson, Springfield, legal director of the Office of the State Appellate Defender and representative of the Illinois State Bar Association; Philip E. Strum, Batavia, chairman of the Kane County Board.

Also, Milton Hocking, Jacksonville mayor; Merie Justus, Cahokia chief of police; Michael Mahoney, Western Springs, executive director of the John Howard Association; Judge John P. McGury, Circuit Court of Cook County Juvenile Division.

Oliver E. O'Kier, Springfield, chief of detention standards, Illinois Department of Corrections; Leo Plante, Danvers, jail manager of the McLean County Jail; Don Scofield, Freeport, Stephenson County sheriff; Ron Sengenberger, Thomasboro, director of the Champagne County Youth Detention Center; and George Shadd, Edwards, Peoria County sheriff.

Flood aid deadline June 29

Some Illinois residents face the loss of disaster recovery aid, according to Phil Zafropoulos, director of Housing for the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration (FDAA).

"In order to be eligible for the programs, Illinois residents must submit an application by June 29," Zafropoulos said. "It would be an unnecessary loss if someone were to become ineligible for recovery aid simply because he did not meet that deadline."

All the programs are still available, and people may be eligible for reimbursement. This may include temporary housing expenses incurred during the flooding. Also, all or some home repair costs could be eligible under the limited home repair program.

"But a person must apply by June 29 to be considered."

To apply for recovery programs, Illinois residents are calling 1-800-322-2641, the Disaster Service Center, 125 St. Jefferson, Peoria.

ZONING HEARING

The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals will hold an on-site public hearing at 9:15 a.m. Tuesday, June 12, in Eagle Park Acres, where Bernard and Evelyn Harris are requesting a special use permit to place a mobile home. The property may be reached by entering Eagle Park Acres from Route 203 and continuing on Harrison Street to the end. It is in an R-4 single-family residential area of Venice Township.

Seminar on pre-hospital emergency medical care

Community leaders from seven Illinois counties have been invited to "EMS Magazine LIVE," a forum on pre-hospital emergency medical care at Memorial Hospital, Belleville, June 6.

Among those invited are all mayors, police and fire chiefs, Chamber of Commerce leaders and county executives.

Dr. Bernard Turnock, chief of the Illinois Department of Public Health's Division of Emergency Medical Services and Highway Safety, said today, "Seminars on EMS (emergency medical services) are generally designed for medical personnel."

"However, pre-hospital response is community-oriented and there is a need to provide information on this aspect of emergency care."

Half of all heart attack victims, for example, die before entering the hospital. In Illinois Region 4 — the counties of Bond, Clinton, Madison, Monroe, Randolph, St. Clair and Washington — this means each year an estimated 1,750 people will die of heart attacks outside of a hospital.

"It is also estimated that 4,000 children in this same region will have an acute poisoning problem. These and other life-threatening emergencies require an effective pre-hospital response."

The purpose of "EMS Magazine LIVE" is to stress the importance of community efforts in emergency pre-hospital care.

Among those who will be assisting in the seminar, forum is Allen L. Van Beek, MD, a microsurgeon who was prominently discussed last year after successfully reimplanting the severed arms of a young boy from the area.

Other speakers will include Sandra Parke, RN, medical supervisor of Menard Correctional Center, and Dr. David Paul, project medical director of Memorial Hospital's paramedic program.

Also on the program are representatives from Illinois State Police District 11, the Greater St. Louis Health Systems Agency, and the Poison Resource Center in Springfield, Ill., in addition to an Illinois paramedic and the Division of EMS staff.

GC Business Women install

Formal installation of new officers highlighted the May dinner meeting of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club. The event was held at the Lewis and Clark Restaurant at East Alton. More than 150 attended.

Mrs. LaVelle Stephens of Madison was installed as the 1979-80 president by Sallie Jo Burton of the Collinsville BPW Club.

Using the theme, "Cultivating Growth in a Club," paralleled with "Growth in a Garden," Miss Burton presented gifts of strawberries, artichokes, spices, wine and jasmine tea as she charged those being installed with their responsibilities.

Mrs. Stephens accepted the gavel of office from the retiring president, Mrs. Lois Wetton.

Installed with Mrs. Stephens were:

Rosalie Stern, president-elect; Ollie Derr, first vice-president; Beverly Stone, second vice-president; Kathryn Zboray, recording secretary; Carolyn Frye, corresponding secretary; and Pearl Kennerly, treasurer.

New board members installed and their area of responsibility are:

Alberta Schubert, Foundation chairman; Norma Mendoza, legislative chairman; Sharold Yount, program chairman; Cathy Jamison, membership chairman; Lori Houser, Young Careerist chairman; Wilma Large, finance chairman; and Diane Capps, public relations chairman. After a parade of past club presidents, Mark Holem sang "One Day at a Time" and other melodies by special request.

The Rev. Charlotte Zachary gave the invocation. Special music was provided throughout the evening by Valerie Stevens, club music director, at the piano.

Other entertainment was furnished by Job's Daughters, Bethel 43 of Granite City, escorted by Mrs. Becky Slate, guardian.

Members of the Bethel taking part were Tracy Dimock, Gena Fox, Lee Ann Backer, Kathy Brosman, Terri Roberson, Georgia Scrum, Susan Sandall, Theresa Laver, Jeanie Holt, Beth Knight, Shelle Knight and Patty Crider.

In her installation address, Mrs. Stephens commented, "Our theme for 1979-80 is Decade for Decision: Together We Aspire, Together We Achieve."

"I hope everyone will work together for our club. I will try to simply be a leader who has followers, who sees things and helps them come true."

"A leader who uses her heart as well as her head; a leader who is a self-starter and a person of thought and action."

Motivating forces she hopes to carry through her year of office, Mrs. Stephens said, are—being consistent and considerate, setting an example, keeping promises and learning from mistakes.

Several gifts were presented to Mrs. Stephens and Mrs. Wetton. A basket of flowers, given to the new president by her granddaughter, Jennifer Gross, was designed by Chuck Wooster.

Mrs. Ruth Walk, membership chairman, presented gifts to 11 club members who had attended all meetings in the past 12 months. Guests of Mrs. Stephens attending the dinner included Mrs. Ellie Odum, Harry and Nancy Odum, Susan and Joe Gross and daughter, Jennifer, Mark Cox, Paula and Carl Holem, Dorothy and John Lerch and Jay Kelly.

Other special guests were Marge Tricoff, Van Stuart, Lula Wofford, Billie Jenkins, Charlotte Zurbe, Jerry and Elsie Stone, Norma Skole and Nadine Ryan. Former state officers, Catherine Burton and Annabel Woodring, from Collinsville BPW; Ev Smith and Marie Williams from Fairview-Edgemont BPW; and Alice Hall, Pat O'Mara, Olivia Fuchs and Doris Vogt from Bel-East 21 Club.

Allen Jesse, Executive Vice President of Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, said the new Susan B. Anthony $1 coin, a half billion of which will be injected into the monetary system by the Treasury Department in July, is not expected to be greeted with the "who needs it?" of the $2 bill. Its size and convenience will make it popular. The new coin will be 30% smaller than the Kennedy half dollar but larger than the quarter. It will weigh only one-third as much as the half-dollar. The coin will cost only 3 cents to produce and will last 15 years. By contrast, the $1 bill costs 2 cents but lasts only 1 to 1.5 years.

Total displacement of all $1 bills is not planned, but a 20% displacement would save the government about $10 million. The new coin will be the first size reduction in an American coin in more than 120 years — a large one-cent piece disappeared from the monetary system in 1857.

Hughes faces two charges

Tommy L. Hughes, 21, of 2717 Roosevelt Drive, was taken to Madison County jail at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday pending posting of a $2,500 bond on a charge of aggravated battery and resisting a police officer.

The charges stem from a fight at 2015 Washington Ave. at 1 a.m. Sunday.

As police approached the scene of the alleged fight, Hughes was seen running toward Ken's Lounge, 1539 20th St., officers said.

Police said they found Hughes hiding under a pickup truck in the lounge's parking lot.

After he was advised that he was under arrest, Hughes allegedly started pushing the officers and tried running again.

After being taken to the police station, Hughes allegedly started to fight with police again and refused to give them any booking information.

Oak Forest fire-baller is formidable foe

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

OAK FOREST, Ill. — Granite City North's Steelers are hoping that old sayings don't always come true. It's a common opinion that good pitching will beat good hitting every time. Illinois prep baseball fans have a chance to see if that is the case in Peoria Thursday when North meets Oak Forest High School in the quarterfinals of the Illinois Class AA (large school) State Tournament at Meinen Field.

North will supply the good hitting. The Steelers have been pounding the baseball all over the diamond in nearly all their games this season. They have given their pitchers plenty of runs with which to work. And in many cases they have needed a few more to work with.

The good pitching will be supplied by Oak Forest in the form of left-hander Tony Bartolomeucci. The powerful junior has earned an average (ERA) under one. This season alone, he has hurled one no-hitter, four one-hitters, two three-hitters, two two-hitters and two four-hitters. He has struck out 169 batters in 99 innings of work.

"No doubt about it, he's our stopper," said Oak Forest Coach Andy Scianna. "We don't often score a lot of runs, but we don't have to when he's pitching."

Bartolomeucci may not have faced a group of hitters such as the North club. They have ripped every team's ace pitchers through five tournament games. They have outscored their opponents 40-14 through three Regional and two Sectional games.

But the Oak Forest southpaw hasn't been facing any slouches in post-season play. "He pitched one-hitter in the first sectional game and turned right around and pitched another one in the championship game," said Scianna.

Oak Forest's Bengals

downed defending state champion Chicago Marist in the championship game of the Burbank-Revis Sectional. That was the same Marist squad defeated by Granite City South 6-3 on the first weekend of the season.

The Oak Forest team isn't a one-man show on the mound, even though it is close to being one. The Bengals have two other juniors who have done well for them on the mound. Bill Wessman has a record of 6-2 and Dan Folgers has a 4-2 mark. Both are right-handers.

"I like to think we complement our good pitching with good defense," said Scianna. "We poke the ball some, too, but hitting's not our forte."

The Oak Forest defense, according to Scianna, is particularly strong up the middle — shortstop, second base and centerfield. "They have good range and are very sure-handed."

"They don't throw the ball around too much."

The middle portion of the defense is made up — as is the pitching staff — of all juniors, giving Scianna reason for optimism next season.

The Oak Forest shortstop is Mark Flanagan. Second base is anchored by Dave Braden and the centerfielder is Kevin Murphy.

The leader on the field for Oak Forest is senior catcher Tony Carro. "He has a good arm," said Scianna. "It's not what you could call a cannon, but he very rarely makes a mistake."

"He's a take-charge type of guy on the field," he added. "He's the one who goes out and balls-out our pitchers when they need it. He's smart and calls a good game. I suppose the others look up to him since he is older than most of them."

Are there any surprises at this season's state finals to Scianna? "There's one, the fact that his team is there. I'm surprised that Marist or St. Lawrence didn't make it up," he said.

Oak Forest beat both of those teams enroute to Peoria.

Is his club deep enough on the mound to win three games in two days and win the state championship? "I hope so, but I really don't know," he said. "Right now, I'm just hoping we can get by North."

Vans score 41 runs to whip Mitchell twice

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record

EAST ALTON — The general opinion around the Inter-City baseball league is the team to beat is the Music Room Vans.

But just because the fact is recognized by nearly everyone doesn't mean it can be done.

The Mitchell Athletic Club team found that out twice Sunday. Music Room beat Mitchell 24-2 and 17-2 in their double-header.

"There's no doubt that their best team in the league," Mitchell player-coach Ken Crawford said. "In fact, they probably don't belong in this league."

Music Room's coach Jim Blackledge wasn't ready to pull his team from the league, but he did admit his team was probably the cream of the competition. "We've beaten everybody we played this season, and we've played everybody but Marryville, so I guess that means something."

"About the only close games we've played so far was the double-header against Collinsville last week. They've got a good club and they played us two real strong games," he said.

The Music Room's competition Sunday was less than strong. Mitchell gave up 16 hits and 24 runs in the first game.

In all, Mitchell used four pitchers. Bud Prazma started, but didn't last the first inning. He was replaced by Terry Page after one out. Page went until the fifth, when Dennis Solberger relieved. Then Jeff Scarborough came in the sixth and finished.

"You know we're hurting for pitching when I pitch," Scarborough, who is usually a first baseman, said.

In addition to his fill-in work on the mound, Scarborough also contributed a hit that drove in Mitchell's only runs of the game in the third.

The hit was one of eight Mitchell collected in the game.

Mitchell's Bob Ricker added two more in the first game. On the day, he was Mitchell's most effective hitter, going five for seven in the two games.

As if there were any doubt left about Music Room's credentials after its performance in the first game, it continued its romp in the nightcap.

Music Room blasted out 14 hits in route to the victory, including two home runs.

The first came in the third off the bat of Jim Brown, and drove home two runs in front.

Then in the fourth, Steve Broother hit a two run shot.

Although both home runs were well hit, they probably would have been long outs in a conventional park. The field in Alton has a sloping outfield just 270 feet from home plate.

Despite the easy home runs, Music Room had hits to spare. It scored in each of the seven innings except the last.

Mitchell's starting pitcher Mike Stanton was the victim of both home runs in his four and one-half innings of work. Crawford came in the fifth,

Press-Record Sports (Kirk) Champion sees hope for 'his' Post 13

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — The coach of Tri-City Post 113 baseball team of the American Legion District 22 is named Champion.

Not Conrad "Babe" Champion, Granite City South's coach and Tri-City's coach for the last few years. The name's Kirk Champion, Babe's son.

The younger Champion will inherit the reins from his father, along with a roster full of players from his dad's high school team.

"There's not too much difference from this team and the one that played at South," Champion said. "It's pretty much the same pitching staff, and we don't have many long ball hitters, but I think the potential is there."

South's team finished its season with a 20-6 record, but missed playing in post-season tournaments by losing in the opening round of the regionals.

Champion will try to repeat the performance, and make up for the disappointing finish. "We're aiming for the district tournament," he said. "That's what it comes down to. We hope we can do well when the time comes."

Champion said he won't make any wholesale changes in the playing style employed by South. "I only saw them play at Springfield, Mo. at a tournament there," he said. "But once a week or so I talked to my dad and kept pretty well in touch with what was going on with the team."

"Our philosophies are pretty much the same. I learned from my dad when I was growing up and when I played for him. We may be a little less conservative but that's about it."

Champion said that didn't mean the team will be wild, but that it would do things like run and bunt, and use the squeeze play when it was in order.

Champion pointed to defense as the key to success for Tri-City, especially up the middle. "I know it sounds cliche, but if we play well in our middle defense we'll be all right. Our catching, second baseman, shortstop, and center fielder have got to hold out," he said.

The young coach also said some questions still remain about the pitching staff. Specifically about the lack of a "stopper." He said only Jeff Tretter could be considered an overpowering top pitcher.

The pitching staff is deep, according to Champion, but this leads to a further concern.

"For the first time, we have four pitchers who can pitch only. In the past, we had guys who could also play another position," he said.

This means Tri-City's bench strength may be less than in the past.

Tretter, along with Jeff Parker, are expected to provide Tri-City's power this year. But other than those, the home runs may be scarce.

With that in mind, Champion said he will stress defense, pitching, and running more.

In the past year Champion was the pitching coach at Southwest Missouri State University, but this is his first time as head coach.

He admitted there will be pressure on him to perform well, but said he didn't think it would be too great.

"I had a taste of coaching at South West," he said. "I think the difference between that and being the head coach is the little things off the field."

"This is basically a pretty simple game. I think I can handle things between the lines fine, but things like arranging transportation, gas, trip, things like that will be the most difficult."

Champion said this first year he hopes to do well to build confidence in his abilities. He thinks his team will accommodate him.

"I think we can stay away from any long slumps. I don't know how strong the district is, but I think we'll be competitive," he said. "I think we can play with any team in the district."

TERRY PAGE watches as one of his pitches sails toward the plate yesterday during Mitchell's doubleheader loss at the hands of the Music Room Vans. Page was one of a long line of Mitchell-pitchers who had one thing in common — they had trouble getting the Vans out. Music exploded for 41 runs in two 7-inning games to sweep the doubleheader and drop Mitchell's record to 2-4 on the season.

Tri-City Late Model feature won by Ross

By JEFF EAVES
for the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Taking the lead on lap five, Joe Ross of Mechanicsburg, Ill., driving his 1977 Burger Chevrolet, won his first feature of the year in a special 25-lap late model feature on the half-mile track at the Tri-City Speedway here Saturday night.

Ross, who started on the second row outside, battled side-by-side with Kevin Gundaker of St. Louis and Steve Frazie of Montrose, Iowa, until Gundaker lost an engine. Then Ross passed Frazie on the high side to take the lead for good.

Ross and Frazie were followed by C. C. Corbin of East Alton, Ill., Johnny Prior of Centralia, Ill., Bill Myers of East Alton, Dick Snider of Vincennes, Ind., and Dick Taylor of Springfield, Ill.

The first heat evened out in the late model division was taken by Ron Fisher of Centralia, Ill. Fisher was followed by Joe Ross, Bucky Bensley of St. Ann, Mo., and Randy Booth of Springfield, Ill.

The second heat was taken by Steve Frazie. Frazie was followed by Bill Myers, C. C. Corbin, and Terry Sloan of DeSoto, Mo.

Kevin Gundaker of St. Louis won the third heat. He was followed by Dick Taylor, Len Gittemeier of St. Charles, Mo., and Bill Laycock of Granite City.

The trophy dash for the six fastest cars was won by Bill Myers. He was followed by Dick Taylor and Len Gittemeier.

Johnny Prior of Centralia, Ill., won the semifinals and he was followed by Dick Snider, Willie Johnston of St. Charles, Mo., and Don Gray Sr. of St. Louis.

In the sportsman division, a total of 14 cars were on hand and the 2,500 racing fans that were in attendance saw a thrilling action in both the late models sportsman cars.

The first heat was taken by Roy Tobias of Elsberry, Mo. Tobias was followed by Guy Pearson of St. Peters, Mo., Paul Humphrey St. of Duplo, Ill., and Carl Hahn of St. Louis.

Rob Jones of Creve Coeur, Mo., won the second sportsman heat. He was followed by Don Holt of Vandalia, Mo., Steve Tuomey of State Park, Ill., and Paul Humphrey Jr. of Granite City.

Starting on the front row outside and leading every lap of the 15-lap feature, Rob Jones won his first feature of the year driving the Jones & Lockhart Welding Service Camaro by an impressive margin over Roy Tobias, Don Holt, Len Garsen of St. Charles, Mo., and Steve Tuomey.

Action at Tri-City will resume this Saturday night with the late models and sportsman cars on the half-mile, beginning at 7:30. Promoter Gil Rindel has announced that there will be a special race Wednesday, June 13, with a total purse of $6,000 and $1,000 to win in the late model division. Time trials will begin at 7 p.m.

Stamper confident about Steelers' chances

JEFF STAMPER IS CONGRATULATED AFTER SCORING AGAINST NORMAL

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Early in the 1979 baseball season, the Granite City North Steelers joked about making reservations at the Ramada Inn in Peoria for the June 7 and 8.

That's when the state tournament was scheduled.

After winning the Springfield sectional tournament last week, the joke became reality, and no one was laughing about the Steelers.

North has taken a line-up that includes only four seniors and made a run at the state championship. One of those seniors, Jeff Stamper, thinks the run will be successful.

"We're confident," he said. "I think that's the way we should be, not over-confident, but just sure of ourselves."

It's a common state of mind on the Steelers, who have nicknamed their defense the "Steel Curtain" and their defense the "Lumber Company".

Not very original, but very accurate. The Steelers have seven players hitting over .300 and likewise lofty fielding percentages.

"Our coach (Bob Stegmeyer) does a good job," Stamper said. "Our team really stays up on the bench. It feels good to go up to the plate and here those guys behind you."

The Steelers display their enthusiasm but keep a sense of discipline on the field. It's part of Stegmeyer's fundamentalist approach to the game.

"On the way to Springfield we didn't think about the game at all," said Stamper. "We just went up there and he (Stegmeyer) had us take some batting practice before the game. But when the game started that's all we thought about."

Stamper said he is taking a similar approach to the game in Peoria, Thursday. "You try to keep it in the back of your mind, but you don't want to think about it all the time," he said.

When he does think about it, the name Tony Bartolomeucci probably comes to mind.

He is the outstanding young left-hander for Oak Forest High School, the team North will face in the opening round of the tournament.

"I hear he throws really hard," Stamper said. "They say his fastball has been timed at 85 to 90 miles per hour. That's fast."

Is it true what they say about good pitching stopping good hitting? "Our good hitting will stop him," Stamper said. "He's only a junior. Maybe 16 or 17 years old. He's probably heard about us too. I think there'll be more pressure on him than on us."

Stamper said North's juniors should be better able to handle the pressure of the tournament. He said juniors Bob Batey and Mike Robertson have both had some experience four past years, and that first-year starters like Dennis Page and Bob Ford are enjoying good years.

He and the other seniors don't feel the responsibility of leadership for the younger players, Stamper said, because no one lead personality assumes the role.

"I guess Tom Greco is the closest thing we have to a leader," he said. "Not like in the past when we had guys who stood out. I guess everybody just pitches in together."

'A good time was had by all'

EDWARDSVILLE — The 1979 Olympics were held Friday at Southern Illinois University.

Not the regular Olympic games mind you — but something just as important to those who participated and helped organize the Regional Senior Olympics. Held at the Cougar Athletic Fields, the Olympics attracted around 100 participants ranging in age from 60 to 79.

The winners will advance to the State Senior Olympics to be held later this year in Springfield.

The events at the games included the mile run, the broad jump, 50-yard dash, discus throw, basketball free throw, five-mile bicycle ride, horseshoes, fly-casting and low hurdles. At SIUE's University Center, the bowling competition was held and the Edwardsville YMCA served as the site for the swimming competition.

One of the people instrumental in getting the Regional Senior Olympics off the ground was Granite Cityan Edgar Paddock. He is Granite City's representative of the advisory board of the Southwestern Illinois Area Agency on Aging (SWIAAOA). "We've been working pretty hard on this for about two or three months now," he said. "This year it's experimental since it's our first-ever. We've still got a few kinks to work out, but we're pleased with the way things have gone."

Paddock, a retired railroad worker who moved to Granite City 1962, spoke as he retrieved balls for the basketball free throw event. "We expected a few more people as spectators," he said. "But having on a weekday like this had something to do with that."

He ran after a loose basketball. "I guess some people think this whole thing is kind of silly," he said upon his return. "But I think it's great. Everybody's having a good time, that's the main thing."

The Regional Olympics attracted participants from seven Southern Illinois counties in addition to St. Louis. The seniors from St. Louis will not be eligible to advance to the State Olympics in Springfield, however.

After each event, the winners stepped up onto the awards stand and received their medals — gold, silver or bronze. There were several different age groups participating in each event, so more than one place-medal was awarded.

One of the participants in the horseshoe throwing events was Cleve Cox of Granite City. "I haven't thrown horseshoes in several years," he said. "But I'm having a good time."

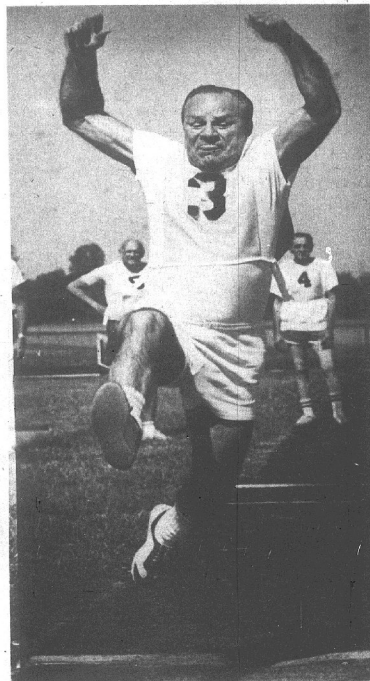

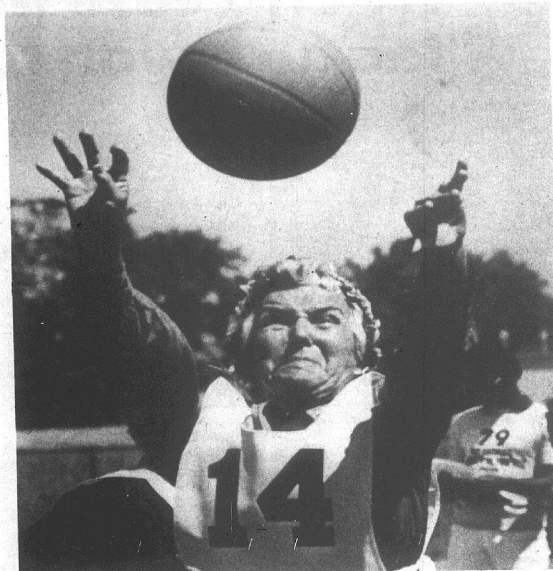

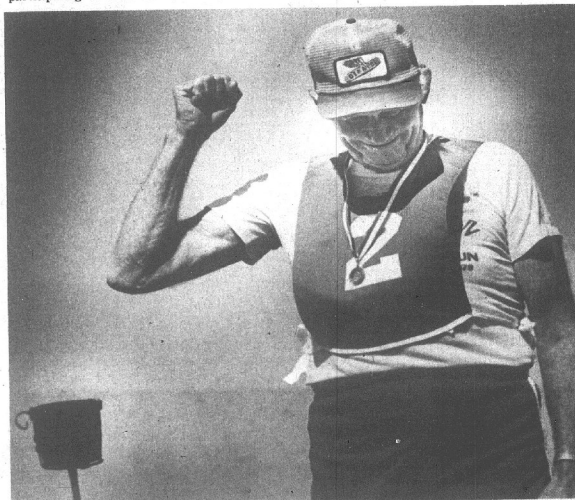

Cox, who moved to Granite City in 1918, is 67. "I'm absolutely for this idea," he said. "People get exercise, fresh air and enjoy themselves."

"I'm glad it didn't rain, too," he said glancing skyward.

A retired worker from Granite City Steel (after 31 years), Cox added a bit of philosophy. "I keep myself busy," he said. "I drive senior citizen buses one day a week and do some volunteer work."

"When you retire, you have to stay busy. You can't just sit on your duff and die. I'm going to go as long as I can go."

There were about 99 other people here Friday who feel the same way.

Soccer camp is set

DESOTO, MO. — Rick Benben, assistant soccer coach at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will help instruct youngsters at this summer's Burt Ranch Soccer Camp.

The camp, for boys aged 7-16, will hold two one-week sessions July 8-13 and July 15-20.

Benben has long experience as a player and a coach. He played in goal for SIU-Edwardsville and for the Dallas Tornado of the North American Soccer League. Besides coaching at SIU-Edwardsville, Benben also guided Rula of St. Louis to last year's Missouri Junior Cup. He also assisted head coach Bob Brunette with the Busch Senior team, which won the Missouri Senior Cup this season.

Brunette, the athletic director of the Affton School District in suburban St. Louis, is co-director of Burt Ranch Soccer Camp along with Pat McBride. McBride, a 10-year NASL veteran, is head coach at Meramec Community College. In three seasons at Meramec, McBride has led his team to a national junior college title and a second-place finish.

Burt Ranch Soccer Camp is located near DeSoto, Mo., about 35 miles south of St. Louis. Boys stay at the camp full-time. A week-long session costs $125 and includes room and meals. For more information, those interested may write Burt Ranch Soccer Camp, 731 Davenport, St. Louis, Mo. 63123, or call (314) 631-7114.

Offensively, Mitchell was again frustrated, as they could only manage five hits off Music Room's Darrell Downer, who went the full seven innings.

Ricker contributed four of those five hits, driving in Kevin Hayes, who had the only other hit, in the first with a triple, and setting up the second run, as he moved John Harding to third in the fifth inning, where he scored on Brian Sikes' infield out.

But that was the extent of Mitchell's scoring against a team that sports a roster of heavy hitters, including the baseball coach at SIUE, and members of the SIUE team.

"Mitchell's fortunes should improve some in the near future, however. Crawford said some late roster additions should help.

"We're going to get about four guys from the North team after their season is over. They should help a lot," he said.

XII. MORALITY AND MORTALITY IN MODERN SOCIETY.

By ROBERT M. VEATCH

Eighty-year-old Granger Evans was in respiratory crisis from pneumonia. Cancer had engulfed his body; doctors believed it would eventually take his life. The next morning he was dead.

Acting on humane motives, the physicians decided to let him die of pneumonia now rather than of cancer later. The nurses agonized over the decision, but no one asked Mr. Evans or his family whether it was right to let him die this way.

Technology has given us new choices. Fifty years ago, Mr. Evans would have died of pneumonia; there was no treatment. Ten years ago, he would have been treated with antibiotics; doctors would have struggled to the end.

Now, with modern life-support machines, the end can often be postponed for long periods of time.

This sometimes fanatical commitment to prolong life has led to a public outcry for "death with dignity." More and more decision-makers have heard the death-with-dignity message, and now we face new, more complicated questions.

Under what, if any, circumstances is it ethical to let a person die? If life-supporting machines are used, when should they be disconnected? And who makes the decision for a comatose patient?

Technology has raised the questions, but the answers must be found in the moral realm.

THE DUTY TO PROLONG LIFE.

The treatment of Karen Ann Quinlan — the comatose young woman whose parents wanted her respirator disconnected — became controversial because her physician believed he had a duty to prolong life. Many modern physicians, at least until recently, have shared that commitment.

The ancient Greeks, interestingly, believed medicine should preserve and restore health, not necessarily prolong life. The Hippocratic Oath at most seems only to prohibit cooperation in active efforts to kill.

But death became an evil to be combatted, and the preservation of life a fundamental moral commitment. The sacredness of life is the foundation ethic of many people committed to the right to life.

However, probably very few — physicians or lay people — really affirm an absolute duty to preserve any biological life at all costs.

Most people have always recognized that some treatments that could extend life are simply unjustified. We must ponder whether death is necessarily evil, or whether some deaths can be "natural" or "appropriate" or "good."

DEFINING DEATH.

Our new ability to prolong dying raises another question: When is a person dead? We now keep some hearts beating and lungs pumping even though the brain has been destroyed.

Many claim, and 18 state legislatures have agreed, that persons should be considered dead when their brains are destroyed, regardless of heart and lung function.

The need for human organs in a viable condition for transplantation made this definition of death an important practical question. We cannot call a person dead, however, simply because we need organs.

But there are other good reasons for clarifying the meaning of death. First, it is wrong to waste limited resources treating a cadaver. And, second, many people believe it is an unacceptable affront to the memory of a person to treat his or her corpse as if it were still the living person.

KILLING AND ALLOWING TO DIE.

"Euthanasia" — a term so confusing it ought to be abandoned — is the most debated ethical issue of death and dying. The Greeks used the term to refer to a "good" death. They accepted not only suicide and individuals' decisions to stop medical intervention, but also active assistance by others. For the ancient Stoics, ending one's life when the future held only physical and mental decline was a noble act.

THREE BASIC QUESTIONS.

Modern culture, influenced by the Judeo-Christian tradition, has identified three separate questions.

First, is it ethically different to kill actively than to let die? Active killing is opposed not only by Orthodox Jews and Catholics, but by most Protestants and secular thinkers, also. They argue that neither physicians nor others should become involved in purposeful killing, and that "mercy killing" would lead to disrespect for life.

Active killing, they believe, is unnecessary, since pain can be controlled with medication — although high doses of pain killers can also result in death.

Defenders of active killing reject the idea that we are less responsible for letting something happen than for actively causing it. They deny that active killing for mercy will necessarily lead to more widespread killing.

Second, we must decide when, if ever, omission or withdrawal of treatment is acceptable. Medical professionals tend to consider stopping treatment active killing. Turning off a respirator is an action just like a fatal injection of potassium.

Philosophers and theologians, however, tend to see stopping as similar to not starting. From the perspective of the patient's right to consent to treatment, withdrawal of treatment is nothing more than cancelling the consent.

Some persons distinguish between ordinary and extraordinary means of treatment, even though little consensus exists about what is considered extraordinary.

Pope Pius XII said, "Normally one is held to use only ordinary means — according to the circumstances of persons, places, times and culture — means that do not involve any grave burden for oneself or another."

Two criteria have emerged: usefulness and burdensomeness. A heart transplant could conceivably be reasonable, while in some circumstances an intravenous drip could be unreasonable. The decision is inherently linked to the patient.

Third, even if treatment refusal is appropriate when death is inevitable, is it acceptable when intervention could continue life indefinitely? Some argue that, at least in such circumstances, the duty to preserve life takes precedence.

Those who emphasize self-determination, however, affirm the right of competent patients to refuse treatment. In the past, people have feared being trapped in the health system when they no longer wanted treatment. Recently, as in Mr. Evans' case, physicians have occasionally decided to stop treatment when the patient may have decided differently.

The ethical question is: Does the duty to prolong life ever take precedence over self-determination? The legal answer is "No." But that begs the moral issue. Nor does it tell individuals whether they should refuse treatment.

Still more difficult is the question of when, if ever, guardians of incompetent patients should refuse treatment if the patient will live with it but die without it. The patient cannot decide. Will guardian refusal ever be tolerable, and who should make those decisions?

Family members or others legally charged with authority to decide must be constrained by limits of reasonableness.

SOCIAL RESOURCES.

One final question must be faced not only by the guardians but also by us as members of the larger society.

Acknowledging that care of the terminally ill is enormously expensive and resources are limited, should decisions about prolonging life ever be influenced by social and economic interests of people other than the patient?

The traditional answer — and one that is still worth a great deal — has been "No."

An individual's life may be of low quality and treatment inefficient for the benefit gained, but it is important for the community to sustain the person's life if it is to maintain its collective moral standards.

Realistically, however, we must recognize that we cannot provide all medical care that everyone may desire. The easiest step, eliminating terminal care that patients do not want, is only the beginning. Difficult decisions about which cases, circumstances, and diseases cannot be treated because of high costs will remain.

With an ever-growing technology capable of prolonging life, we will have to arrive at principles for deciding among cases.

RETIREMENT PLANS OUTLINED BY STATE
The Office of Lt. Governor Dave O'Neal has issued a list of financial considerations for those planning retirement.

The staff suggests that those persons carefully study and evaluate their budgets, make inquiries about old age assistance, and, if necessary, register with the state employment service if part-time work is desired, write the local office of the Internal Revenue Service for a free booklet, "Tax Benefits for Older Americans," and investigate retirement communities carefully.

Rules worsen energy crisis and slow steel modernization—Stinson

The United States, the world's largest producer of metallurgical coal, is now forced to import coke. It may, in fact, face a coke shortage when steel production in the rest of the world increases.

A major reason for this situation: the "devastating effect present environmental regulations have had on this country's coke productivity."

These same environmental rules are also aggravating the capital-short steel industry's efforts to modernize and expand its facilities — by draining off large — sums from steelmaking investments into environmental controls. It was contended in late May. These were the key points made in steel industry testimony before the Senate Environmental Pollution Subcommittee.

Appearing on behalf of the steel industry were George A. Stinson, chairman, National Steel Corp., David M. Roderick, chairman, U.S. Steel Corp., and Richard F. Schubert, president, Bethlehem Steel Corp.

According to Stinson, whose firm owns Granite City Steel, the steel industry's coking-making capability dropped from about $4.4 million tons per year in 1974 to an annual rate of about 50 million tons during the second half of 1978. This cut the steel industry's capacity to consume metallurgical coal by about 12 million tons.

The energy losses resulting from the loss in coking capacity are equivalent to about 46 million barrels of oil per year, Stinson said.

He gave these reasons for this situation:

—Reduced productivity and increased operating costs because of "environmental operating procedures."

—High capital costs for "technology-forcing control equipment" which "has generally failed to meet the desired levels of performance."

—Premature shutdown of obsolete coke batteries approaching the end of their normal life cycle "because of the inflexibility of control requirements even for facilities with limited life expectancy."

—Postponement of new coke facilities because of the cost of environmental equipment, which has increased the capital cost of new coke batteries by at least 25 percent.

Roderick underscored the effect current environmental rules are having on the capital-short steel industry's efforts to "expand and modernize."

He said the industry "is being involuntarily liquidated" because of a capital crisis. He also noted that so far, the industry has committed more than $6 billion to improve air and water quality.

He stated that a high percentage of steel's total capital budget — 30 percent in the case of U.S. Steel — is going into pollution control projects.

This spending has occurred at a time when the steel industry's capital requirements exceed its capital availability, according to Roderick. He said an Interagency Task Group recently estimated that the steel industry would have to spend about $4 billion a year just to modernize and update its facilities.

In the period of 1974 to 1978, he said, the industry made capital investments averaging $2.7 billion a year for all purposes.

Roderick also pointed out that steel's profitability ranks near the bottom of a list of major industries and that "we're now just about borrowed up to the hilt."

He said pollution spending in the steel industry often now yields "relatively small environmental benefits."

Roderick said the annual cost of operating his company's pollution control devices averages 18 percent of their original installation cost.

Schubert told the committee that the steel industry is not suggesting compromise of national environmental goals, but rather recognition of the "tremendous burden" caused by the complex regulatory programs.

He suggested these mechanisms to make it easier for companies to cope:

—Rapid writeoff of capital spending on pollution controls, perhaps as much as a 100 percent, one-year writeoff.

—Special regulations for "limited life facilities."

—Amendment of air and water laws to make it clear that once emission or effluent standards have been set for a plant, it should be up to the plant how they would be achieved.

—Allowing dollar-for-dollar credits against penalties under Section 120 of the Clean Air Act.

—Congressional deferral of State Implementation Plan revisions until the Environmental Protection Agency has reviewed ambient air standards.

—Reexamination of the Clean Water Act's "zero discharge" provision.

Jury selection and nuclear reporting bills pass House

Legislation sponsored by Sen. Rep. Everett G. Steele (R-Madison County) to reform the state's jury selection process and expand nuclear plant reporting requirements has passed the Illinois House of Representatives.

The jury reform bill (HB 1855) would permit county clerks to select jurors from lists of persons holding driver's licenses, in addition to using lists of registered voters.

Rep. Steele noted, "By eliminating voter lists as the sole criteria for selection of jurors, a broader based, fairer, more representative make-up of jurors can be assembled."

"Also, by using a larger number of possible jurors, a person's actual chance of serving would be reduced." He believes it also may encourage more persons to vote.

House Bill 2637, pertaining to hazardous material leaks at nuclear plants and elsewhere, expands the conditions requiring reports on actual or threatened hazardous material spills or leaks.

Steele commented, "Illinois has the largest number of nuclear plants of any state in the nation. In the wake of the Three Mile Island nuclear leak, this legislation is important and needed."

"Also, hazardous material spills on railroads, such as occurred near Collinsville within the past year, have also been increasing in number."

"The Emergency Services Agency of Illinois will now be given expanded authority to require prompt reporting of dangerous conditions, both actual and threatened, to permit prompt response for the protection of the public."

Both measures have been sent to the Senate for further approval.

Overpass is endorsed

At its regular monthly meeting last week, the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council endorsed an application by Granite City for approximately $5,500,000 in funds for construction of a grade separation on 19th Street, from Cleveland Blvd. to West 20th Street, over the Norfolk and Western Railway and Illinois Central Gulf Railroad tracks.

The proposed overpass is designed to alleviate congestion and safety problems presently encountered when railroad trackage is in use.

The project calls for an approximate one-fifth-mile, two-lane grade separation, new approaches, paving, light grading, lighting and traffic signals.

In other actions, the Gateway Council board: —Endorsed a 1978-79 fiscal year Community Development block grant application submitted by St. Clair County for $3,600,000 in funds for various housing and community improvement activities.

—Endorsed an application by the Bi-State Development Agency for $200,000 in federal funds to undertake a demonstration project to study the effects on ridership of a reduced fare zone in the St. Louis central business district. The proposed project will replace the "Scout" service currently operating in the CBD.

The Gateway Council and Downtown St. Louis, Inc. will participate in planning and implementation of the project.

—Endorsed a Missouri State Highway Department application for $11,600,000 for improvements to the U.S. Route 40 and Missouri Route 141 (Woods Mill Road) interchange in St. Louis County. The project is designed to accommodate existing and future traffic demand.

—Endorsed a request by St. Charles County and the City of St. Peters for use of $385,000 of Federal-Aid Urban System funds for improvements to Horstmeier Road in St. Charles County.

—Endorsed an application by the City of St. Charles for $400,000 in Community Development — Small Cities Comprehensive Program funds for 1978-79.

—And authorized the staff to enter into a contract with the Missouri Department of Natural Resources for funds to encourage St. Louis area employers to initiate ride-sharing and similar energy-related programs.

It was noted that the deadline for nominations for membership on the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council citizen task forces is June 15.

The four task forces for which nominations are being accepted are: Environmental, Historic Preservation, Housing and Transportation.

Each task force is comprised of 30 persons, each serving one-year terms.

Participants can expect to spend at least six hours a month in meetings or reviewing various materials.

Nominations for consideration can be submitted by any group or individual; self-nomination is also acceptable.

Road deaths, injuries cited as drinking age issue

Prohibition didn't work among the adult population, but Illinois legislators seem intent on enacting a modified version, taking away the beer and wine privileges extended in 1971 to 19- and 20-year-olds. If such drinking is banned during the General Assembly session concluding this month, the principal factor will be traffic safety.

The Senate Executive Committee gave a 11-2 approval Thursday to a House-passed bill raising the age to 21 and barring age variations in communities. The Senate has passed and sent to the House a similar measure that would allow the 92 home-rule governmental units to set their own drinking ages; House committee approval was voted Friday. There are predictions that one or the other proposal will be adopted.

Thursday's vote followed emotional testimony by Sen. Gene Jones, Marion Democrat, who said, "I have lived with a paraplegic brother and know his loneliness and his inability to live a normal life for 20 years as the result of an auto accident and drinking."

Dr. Henry Betts of the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago, which works to rehabilitate spinal cord victims and other severely injured people, said a higher drinking age is needed to combat rising auto fatalities and injuries. "We're involved now in an epidemic of death and disability," he testified. He said serious traffic mishaps involving young people have risen 33 percent in Illinois and 53 percent in Michigan, where the drinking age was lowered to 18 in 1972.

Auto accidents are the leading cause of death for teenage males, Dr. Betts said. Opposing the argument that those required to serve in the armed forces should have the right to drink, he said, "They are very good fighters but extremely bad drinkers." He argued that an age 21 law would reduce drunk driving among 16-, 17- and 18-year-olds, whom he said would find it harder to pass for 21 than 19.

Sen. Sam Vadalabene, one of the two voting against the legislation Thursday, said those aged 19 and 20 "can do everything else." The Illinois Retail Liquor Association lobbied against the measure, being described as favoring the present age law of 19. But the City of Chicago has returned to age 21.

The debate dramatizes the difficulty of setting broad policies that are appropriate in all circumstances. Many have tacitly encouraged youthful drinking as a more acceptable alternative to drug abuse, but now feel the trend has gone too far. There has been extra concern in "state border communities" like the Quad-Cities, which have attracted 19- and 20-year-olds from across the state line.

Meanwhile, another drive to curb auto tragedies is being continued by Illinois state police, whose efforts to limit are also credited with aiding fuel efficiency and easing the gasoline shortage. Illinois highway deaths during the three-day Memorial Day weekend dropped from 31 in 1978 to 28 in 1979, partly reflecting lower traffic volume associated with uncertainty over service station closings.

Rail crossing delays costly to the motoring public

Comment by Post-Dispatch — Rep. Everett G. Steele of Glen Carbon is hopeful that his legislation that would give railroads a financial incentive to prevent their trains from blocking highway intersections will come up for a final vote in the Illinois Senate soon.

Under current law, trains blocking intersections for 10 minutes or more have committed only a petty offense, which usually results in a $50 or $75 fine — hardly a burden for the railroads.

Mr. Steele's bill, which has already passed the House, would stiffen the fine to not less than $200 and up to $500 for halting traffic for 10 minutes and would increase the fine progressively for each additional five minutes the train remains as a traffic obstruction.

This approach is superior to one in a bill that would simply increase the base fine, without adding on to the cost as the time of blockage adds up. The railroads ought to bear an economic burden, for their actions can cost others heavily. When the trains consistently block traffic for long periods of time, the persons trapped lose money and the civic and commercial appeal of the area is diminished.

Sen. Vadalabene of Edwardsville is handling the bill in the Senate and ought to push for early passage so the bill will not be bogged down in the confusion of the final days.

'Y' summer day camp begins season

The Y City Area YMCA has announced that summer day camp for youths, ages 6-12, will begin June 11. Camp will meet Monday through Friday from 8:15 a.m. to 4 p.m. with new sessions beginning every two weeks through July 17.

The 'Y' will provide transportation to this year's site which will alternate between Horseshoe Lake State Recreation Area and Tower Lake at the SUE campus. Camp activities will include swimming lessons, canoeing, crafts, sports, nature lore and special events.

The cost for 'Y' members is $28 per session and $35 for non-members. For more information, applicants may contact Lucy Tueth at the 'Y', 876-7200.

MAN HURT TODAY

Elmer Frohnd, 46, of 2304 Delmar Ave., was struck by a car at Niedringhaus and Delmar avenues at 8:55 a.m. today and was taken to Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He suffered injuries to his head, including a laceration above his left eye, and visible injuries to an elbow and forearm. Ambulance attendants reported he was conscious and alert at the scene.

Smith layoffs for model changeover

Between 1,100 and 1,200 production workers at the A. O. Smith Corp. plant here will be laid off for a two-week period beginning July 16 to permit changeovers for producing auto frames for 1980 models, it was reported today.

The A. O. Smith plant manufactures auto frames for standard-size Chevrolet autos. A plant spokesman said the lay-off will involve production workers only and that maintenance, clerical and other employees will continue in their jobs.

Hear will open '79 River Fest

One of contemporary music's most popular groups, Heart, will open the 1979 Mississippi River Festival season at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow. The festival is located on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

There is no tent this summer at the hillside theater, improving the view of the stadium.

Heart is headed by two sisters, Ann and Nancy Wilson, who write all of the group's material. Ann Wilson is Heart's lead singer, and is considered one of the top female vocalists in the rock world today.

Backing up the two sisters are Roger Fisher, Steve Fossen, Michael Derosier and Howard Leese. In a field traditionally dominated by men, the Wilsons have broken the pattern in the rock field with a combination of talent and style.

Heart is called unique in its quality of musical styles. The music ranges from earthy, hard-driving rock songs to lilting, delicate melodies.

"Dreamboat Annie," Heart's debut album, successfully established the group's sound. Its unusual arrangements and diversity once again are evident in the current popular album, "Dog and Butterfly."

Heart's appearance at the Mississippi River Festival's opening night will be enhanced by one of the largest light shows and visual displays in the concert circuit.

Next will be the Marshall Tucker Band and Pure Prairie League June 12.

News notes

Unemployment in May remained at 5.8 percent, but U.S. industrial employment declined slightly, offset by gains in highway and street construction.

The State Police resumed eight-hour workdays Friday after two weeks of ten-hour shifts but said they will continue their speeding crackdown as a way of encouraging fuel efficiency.

The Illinois Transportation Department has awarded a $92,293 contract to R. H. E. Co. of Granite City to furnish and install traffic signals at the intersection of Illinois Route and Hawthorne Street in Hartford.

Tentative plans call for Granite City students to attend classes in 1979-80 from Aug. 29 to June 6.

Granite City Assessor Von Dee Cruse told the Press-Record on Friday that his staff cannot finish a re-assessment of all real estate property this year, as it has hoped to do. Since the task is so large and detailed, and since certificates of error may be unavailable to correct errors of judgment, he said he prefers proceeding on an orderly basis rather than rushing the task. So far, the work has concentrated on the former Nameok area.

John W. Davis, 80, of 3522 Wayne St., Marine veteran of World War I, died at 1:20 a.m. Sunday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He had been in failing health for the past 2½ years. He was hospitalized five days.

Before retiring in 1976, Mr. Davis was employed as custodian at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church for 25 years.

He was born in Anna, Ill., and had resided here 41 years. Previously, he lived in the Edwardsville area. Mr. Davis served with the U.S. Marine Corps from 1919 until 1921. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1300.

He was of the Methodist faith.

Mr. Davis' stepson, Charles R. Bridgeman, 33, of Granite City, died of an apparent heart attack just 12 hours earlier.

Mr. Davis is survived by his wife, Mrs. Esther Davis; two daughters, Mrs. George (Tillie) Smith and Mrs. Edward (Norma) Zenik; both of Granite City; six grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Joint funeral services are planned with St. Bridgeman. Details are given in today's obituary column.

More natural gas permits; also being used at area power plant

Illinois Power Co. on Friday announced the issuance of 13,223 permits for natural gas service to residential, commercial and industrial customers who had applied for the service prior to April 30.

The release of more than 25.6 million Mcf (thousand cubic feet) a year of natural gas is the largest by Illinois Power since the controlled attachment priority system went into effect.

Residential applicants account for 12,297 of the permits, with the remainder falling in the commercial and industrial categories.

Additionally, fuel shortage problems of farmers and truckers may be reduced as a result of action taken by Illinois Power at its Wood River power plant in East Alton.

Larry Idelman, manager of energy supply, said the company is temporarily using natural gas to fire three electric generating units at the Wood River station rather than No. 2 distillate fuel oil as the plant had been using.

Idelman said the company has voluntarily ceased using natural gas for electric generation in recent years to its short supply.

But, with current improvements in natural gas supply and critical shortages of distillate fuel oils, the company believes it is in the public interest to temporarily displace fuel oil consumption with natural gas.

The Wood River plant will receive gas as a direct customer of Mississippi River Transmission Corporation, a natural gas pipeline supplier.

It will burn available gas in an interruptible basis.

Illinois Power Company's action follows federal approval of an Illinois Power request for a public interest exemption to the Power Plant request. A public interest exemption to the Power Plant and Industrial Fuel Use Act, which would prohibit the company from making the fuel switch under normal circumstances.

In granting the exemption, the department of Energy Economic Regulatory Administration urged the company to switch to gas as quickly as possible.

Idelman concluded by saying the change would not only be providing a less expensive fuel source for Illinois Power electric customers, but it would also make an estimated 250,000 barrels of distillate oil available for other uses over the summer period.

Continued conservation; no gasoline 'panic' is justified

With gasoline station closings and multiple-outlet waiting lines occurring in the Quad-Cities, Governor James R. Thompson, on Friday asked Illinois motorists to continue gasoline conservation measures.

The estimated Illinois shortage for June is projected at 11 percent, or 50 million gallons, Thompson said.

He assured citizens he sees no need for Illinois to use odd-even license plate gasoline purchase systems or price limits in June.

He commented that while some states have ordered that such systems be put into use, Illinois motorists have conserved gasoline and slowed driving speeds to allow Illinois to cope with gasoline shortages "without panic."

"We have been determined to have the highest gasoline prices, on an average, in the nation."

Counseling office to be opened here

The Family Counseling Center, headquartered in Belleville, will be servicing the Granite City area beginning June 6, a spokesman said Friday.

Services offered will include counseling on marriage, adolescent-parent relations and individual problems.

The service will be offered on an appointment basis only at 1254 Niedringhaus Ave. Fees are arranged according to the income of the person or family being served, the spokesman said.

Appointments may be made by contacting the center in Belleville at 1-235-5656.

Father grabs child from grandmother

Granite City police are searching for a man who snatched his 10-year-old son from her custody at 9:45 a.m. Saturday.

The woman reported she and her 21-month-old grandson were on Oaklawn Avenue when a blue sedan stopped and her former son-in-law got out, struck her, grabbed the boy and drove away with him. She alleged the father does not have legal custody of the boy.

The woman appeared before Associate Judge George Moran Jr. and signed a battery complaint. A warrant then was issued for the man's arrest with bond set at $5,000. Neither he nor the boy had been found this morning, officers said.

Swimming will be taught to physically handicapped

Recruiting is now under way for individuals wishing to assist physically handicapped American Red Cross instructional swimming program, which will begin on Monday, July 9, in Granite City at a private swimming facility.

The program of instruction is available for any physically handicapped person in the Quad-Cities. Exceptionally swimming ability is not necessary to assist in the program. Specialized training will be given to interested individuals immediately prior to the start of the program.

Individuals may assist from one to four hours per day, depending on their time schedule for the four-week program.

He had 29 people assisting in the program last year, ranging from high school students to retired people and every step in between," program director Joanne Higgins, told them at the beginning that it would be hard work and they would invest a great deal of time and money in the program.

But when the program concluded, they all found that the amount of pride and satisfaction they got from it far surpassed anything they could take to the bank.

Minimum age for assisting is 15 years old, and there is no maximum age. In addition to the staff, qualified lifeguards, also volunteers, will be in constant attendance.

Interested individuals are being asked to contact the Red Cross office at 482-7184.

Find stolen car

A stolen car was recovered at 30th and Iowa streets at 8:30 p.m. Sunday which was believed to have been in a hit-and-run accident at Madison Avenue and Hawthorne Road at 3:10 a.m. Sunday.

The owner of the car, Tim Stovall, 2140 Robert Ave., said Madison County sheriff's deputies that his car had been stolen about 3 a.m. Sunday from the county.

Granite City police reported it matched the description of a car which left the scene of a hit-and-run accident and was being sought. The other car in that accident was abandoned on the parking lot of the National Food Store and officers are attempting to determine the identity of the driver.

Stovall said his brother found the auto at 30th and Iowa Streets and notified him. He then called police, who released the recovered vehicle to Stovall. It had extensive damage to the left rear quarter panel.

Fire at 12:15 a.m. Friday

Fire at 12:15 a.m. Friday caused an estimated $20,000 damage to the home of Troy Smith, 2239 Illinois Ave. Firemen were on the scene two hours and 45 minutes. A hardwood box left on an electric stove which was turned on accidentally was blamed for the fire in the two-story brick building. The fire spread from the downstairs storeroom to back porch and then to the upstairs apartment, firemen said.

CLOTHES TORN

Debra McCoy, 211a Benton Ave. discovered at 10:30 p.m. Friday her apartment had been ransacked, clothes valued at $25 torn up and flour spread over the floor.

Man shot in leg

Jake E. Ford, 27, of 1011 Market St., Venice, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center suffering from a gunshot wound to the left leg above the knee at 11:10 a.m. Friday. He is reported in good condition.

Madison police have arrested a 22-year-old man for investigation of the shooting and are holding him pending a court appearance today.

The shooting took place at 801 Webster St., Madison, which is a vacant lot. Ford and the person who shot him got into an argument over a $5 debt, police said. The suspect in the shooting, according to Ford, became enraged, left the scene, came back in his car and started shooting at him.

Ford allegedly started to run when he was hit in the leg.

Cultural center to be sold

Dr. Rla C. Frijters, SIUE vice president for business affairs, has announced the university is ready to dispose of the 31.87-acre Olin Estate in Palmyra Addition, Godfrey Township, adjacent to Alton.

The property includes a three-story stone mansion, caretaker's home, greenhouse, tool storage building and dog kennel.

It was a gift to the university from John M. Olin in 1975 for the purpose of establishing a conference and cultural center as part of SIUE.

In 1977, a petition for injunction was filed by Fairmount residents, claiming the facility was restricted by a 1923 covenant limiting use of the property "exclusively for residential purposes." The court ruled in favor of the petition, and the property has remained idle. Neighbors said they opposed the auto traffic that might have been generated.

Being unable to develop the conference and cultural center prompted the university's decision to offer the property for sale, Dr. Frijters said. The asking price is $400,000.

A brochure describing the property is being prepared. Qualified prospects may write to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Office of Business Affairs, Campus Box 134, Edwardsville 62025 for a copy of the brochure, or may call 692-2484 for information.

What you should know about air conditioning

Some manufacturers of heating and cooling equipment have begun to use aluminum tubing in their heat pump and central air conditioning coils. Now aluminum is great for some things, like beverage cans, lawn chairs, etc. But coil tubing isn't one of them.

Lennox uses only dependable, proven copper tubing. Copper costs a little more, but the advantages are well worth it. Copper is easier to work with, less brittle, more flexible, easier to make tight joints with.

Lennox enjoys a high quality reputation unsurpassed in the heating and air conditioning industry. We didn't get it by skimping on materials.

It's just one more reason to see your independent Lennox dealer for all your heating and air conditioning needs. Call:

In Memoriam 33

In loving memory of MISS FRANCES TOPAL. Thank You Friend: I never came to you my friend and went away without. Some new enrichment of the heart; More faith and less of doubt; More courage for the days ahead; And often in great need, Coming to you, I went away comforted indeed. How can I find the shining word, The glowing phrase that tells all that your love has meant to me, all that your friendship meant? There is no word, no phrase for you, On whom I could depend; All I could have said to you is this: God bless your memory, precious friend.

Francie and I met at Spears Sanitarium in Denver, Colo., during 1947. She was one of the most beautiful people I have ever known. The last thing we said to each other was, "I love you, Hon," when she called me the evening of April 27th, this year, to wish me a happy birthday. She will be sadly missed by all who knew her.

Her intimate friend of 32 years, Hope Oletka, Rural Route No. 1, Box 204, Brown's Valley, Minn. 56219. 33 6 4

In loving memory of my dear sister, IMOGENE YORK, on her birthday, Laura Mae Hawkins. 33 6 4

Pollution Variance
Granite City Steel, Division of National Steel Corporation, has filed with the Environmental Protection Agency and Pollution Control Board a petition for a variance. Title IX of the Environmental Protection Act provides for individual variances upon the Petitioner that compliance with specific provisions of the Act, related regulations or Board Opinions would impose upon the Petitioner an "arbitrary and unreasonable hardship." The Petitioner alleges such a hardship, and requests permission to reschedule closure dates of its "A" and "B" Coke Batteries as follows: Amended Order PCB 78-124 of May 12, 1977 which required "A" Battery to close down on June 1, 1980 and "B" Battery to close down on December 11, 1979 to the following new dates: "A" Battery (27 ovens) to close on February 8, 1979. "B" Battery (49 ovens) to close on June 11, 1980.

The Environmental Protection Agency solicits the views of persons who might be adversely affected by the granting of the variance. Any comments or inquiries should be addressed to: John D. Williams, Assistant Regional Administrator, E.P.A., 2201 Churchill Road, Springfield, Illinois, 62706, 217-782-5544. Formal objections to the petition will be filed in writing with the Clerk of the Pollution Control Board, 308 West Washington Street, Chicago, Illinois, 60606. (Please refer to PCB 79-103).
